

YOUNG GOULD IS AMONG FIRST TO JOIN THE COLORS

Kingdon Gould, one of America's rich young men, whose marriage took place on July 2, and who was erroneously reported to have balked at the draft, his age being twenty-nine years, was one of the 169 men from Ocean county that entrained last Tuesday for Toms River, N. J.

Mr. Gould made a special request of the local board that he be sent with the first batch of 40 per cent from Ocean county.

This isolated spot where the cantonment camp is located was chosen by Mr. Gould because around it clings a bit of sentiment. It was there that he cast his first vote on reaching his majority and where he has continued to hold his legal domicile.

Mr. Gould is a well-known sportsman and a grandson of Jay Gould. He married Miss Annunziata Camilla Maria Lucio, an artist and tutor in the Gould family after a romance that extended over a period of about twelve months. Mrs. Gould is two years the senior of her husband.

Two of the Gould boys are now doing their bit under the colors. Jay Gould volunteered at the beginning of the war and is distinguishing himself in the navy. George Gould, jr., was refused admission to the army for physical reasons, but expects to renew his application.

CHICKOMUXEN LIGHT OUT.

Chickomuxen creek shoal gray buoy, fifty-two, is not burning and the attention of navigators is called to this, as the light is one of the most important on the Potomac, and marks one of the shoals in the river. It will be relighted as soon as the light-house service vessel is available.

RACE TRAIN DELAYED.

On account of delay in Baltimore and engine trouble en route, Washingtonians who attended the races at Havre de Grace yesterday failed to reach home until 10 o'clock last night.

KINGDON GOULD UP FOR INSPECTION.

Gould is seen at the extreme left of the line of new Soldiers of Freedom at Camp Dix, Wrightstown, N. J. He went to camp in his oldest outing suit and carried his belongings in a stout canvas kit bag, which looks as if he had a few more articles of personal comfort than his less favored comrades.

RED CROSS SENDS OREGON TIMBER TO FRANCE FOR BASES

Even America's forests are being shipped to Europe to help win the war.

Great fir tracts along the Columbia river in Oregon, the Red Cross announced, are being hewn, loaded on ships there, shot through the Panama canal to New York and hurried across to France.

Thus it comes that our permanent quarters for Red Cross base hospitals on the western front are being fashioned from the ranks of Oregon's army of trees.

The need for sending American forests across the seas to France is shown in the Red Cross statement that "so scarce is timber in France that tents are now being used to house many of the American contingents."

Shipping Board Co-operates.

"This shipment of lumber," said the Red Cross, "like many other shipments of Red Cross supplies now going abroad, is being made through the co-operation of the United States shipping board with the Red Cross war council. Chairman Edward N. Hurley, of the shipping board, was a member of the war council until appointed to the present post."

"The railroad and the city of New York have also aided in the establishment of the new Red Cross transportation service. The railroads, through the railroads' war board, have issued orders that Red Cross shipments must not be held up by embargoes or any delays of ordinary freight in these days of railway congestion."

"New York city has turned over to the Red Cross a large warehouse on

ILLINOIS FARMERS HUNT ESCAPED CIRCUS LION

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 23.—A lion which escaped a few days ago from a carnival company at Pawnee, Ill., is being hunted in the Cahokia Creek bottoms, between Edwardsville and Worden. An organized body of farmers searching for it found its tracks. The lion, a male, was seen on farms in that locality has been attributed to the lion.

Once before this summer a lion ran at large for a time in southern Illinois, one belonging to a circus having escaped at Decatur.

What a Comfort To Have The Children at Home

Instead of on the streets, in public dance halls or in unknown places.

Parents have only themselves to blame if their children seek the streets instead of wanting to stay at home. The home can be made far more attractive than the public places if just a little thought is given to its furnishings, making it as pleasant as possible for the children.

Make it a place where they will want to congregate, where they will want to invite their friends. Here, in the clean wholesome surroundings of the private family they will grow up to be the children you wished, free from the bad influences of questionable places that are the bane of every mother's life.

If the expense bugaboo is robbing your daughter of the pleasure of a well-furnished home and you of the companionship of a contented daughter, we invite you to come here and select just what you think is needed to accomplish the desired result.

We'll show you how easily our liberal credit terms will enable you to afford the things at once.
